On your marks…get set for the Olympics

OLYMPIC fever is due to hit Cardiff this month as the very first event of the games takes place at the Millennium Stadium.

On Wednesday, July 25 the eyes of the world will be on Cardiff when women footballers from Team GB kick off against New Zealand heralding the start of the 2012 Olympic Games.

A total of eleven matches are being played at the Millennium Stadium including the GB men's team who play Uruguay on August 1. Both GB teams will return to the Millennium Stadium for their quarter finals if the women finish second in their group and the men win their group.

With thousands of people set to descend on the city to watch these exciting Olympic football matches, Cardiff Council alongside the Millennium Stadium and South Wales Police have put together detailed plans for road closures within the city whilst the matches take place.

Cardiff is used to hosting world class sporting events and the road closures in place for Olympic matches will be similar to those already established for international rugby events and concerts at the stadium.

For all Olympic matches there will be road closures in place around the Millennium Stadium. The following roads will be closed in their entirety : Duke Street, Castle Street, High Street, St Mary Street, Caroline Street, Wood Street, Central Square, Westgate Street, Quay Street, Guildhall Place, Golate, Park Street, Havelock Street and Scott Road.

The following roads will be partially closed:

• Kingsway (from its junction with North Road/Boulevard de Nantes to its junction with Duke Street).

• Cowbridge Road East (from its junction with Cathedral Road to its junction with Westgate St).

• Tudor Street (from its junction with Clare Road to its junction with Wood Street).

• Plantagenet St and Beauchamp Street (from their junctions with Despenser Place to their junctions with Tudor Street).

Road closures will be implemented two and a half hours before kick off and will remain in place until at least an hour after the game ends. The road closures will be applied both on weekdays and weekends.

There maybe further need to close Westgate Street during the Olympic period if required.

Meanwhile a new advertising campaign with a supporting website and social media channels has been launched to communicate directly with the people travelling to the matches.

'Get Ahead of the Games' explains how, at certain times and in certain locations, public transport 'hotspots' and some of the UK's roads and rail networks will be much busier than usual.

By visiting the website www.GetAheadof theGames.com, or following the @GAOTG Twitter feed, you can receive the latest tips, travel information and advice on how to plan ahead and avoid the travel hotspots.

An ideal method of transport for getting to and from Cardiff city centre during the Games for football matches at the Millennium Stadium is by using Park and Ride.

Park and Ride sites can be accessed by following signs for Park and Ride from junction 33 of the M4.

Event day Park and Ride services are £10 per car and the hours of operation are outlined at the end of this story. It will have provisions for the disabled, with parking next to the bus pick-up point within the site, as well as low-floor access buses. The site will open 30 minutes before the first bus, and close 30 minutes after the last bus leaves the city centre.

The advice is that you allow 15 minutes walk from the drop-off point to the Stadium, and a further 40 minutes to reach your allocated seat.

The timings for the road closures and park and ride information are listed at the end of this article. Free coach parking will be also provided on King Edward VII Avenue in Cardiff City Centre. Travel by coach is ideal as a means of contributing to the minimising of highway congestion. Drivers are advised to leave the M4 at Junction 32 and follow the signs for coach parking.

A day in a life

The latest in a regular series looking at jobs carried out by Council employees. This month Daniel Meighan, Centre Assistant and Relief Assistant Manager at Llanishen Leisure Centre, talks to Capital Times.

CARDIFF is fortunate to have seven swimming pools across the city and a band of lifeguards ensuring they are safe places to swim and enjoy.

The main part of my job is to supervise the pool and make sure people of all swimming abilities can enjoy the centre and get the most from their visit.

Lifeguards or Centre Assistants as we are known, have several other responsibilities and our job is varied, which is one of the reasons I was attracted for the role. As well as caring to the needs of members of the public who use the centre, we also make sure it runs smoothly and is a pleasant and clean place for visitors.

Llanishen Leisure Centre is one of the Council's busiest sites and I have worked here for ten years now. I have always had a keen interest in sports including football and rugby and when I left school I wanted a job which was active and fun, rather than a desk job.

A typical day involves checking changing rooms, ensuring the centre is clean and ready for the public, setting up equipment for the various activities such as circuits or the crèche and supervising the pool.

I enjoy the diversity of my job and no two days are the same. I have a great relationship with the other staff and have made good friends. We have a good customer base here so I have a great rapport with lots of our regular customers, and that interaction makes it a pleasure to come to work each day.

It is great to see people come in with a goal, maybe to lose weight or get more active, and see what they can achieve. I am happy for people to approach me and ask for advice and it's nice when they take this on board. We also give people information about the Active Card which gives them value for money membership to all the centres and promotes an active lifestyle.

Over the years there have been incidents where swimmers have needed assistance when I have been poolside. It can be scary but we receive so much training that I am confident I can help. One lady two years back got into trouble whilst swimming and became unconscious. I was able to jump in and pull her out and she received immediate and correct care from staff in order to make a full recovery.

Training is regular and compulsory. You need to be vigilant and we undergo the National Pool Lifesaving Qualification which needs to be renewed every two years. I am also first aid trained.

Members of staff from several of the centres have also come together to compete in the National Lifeguard challenges and won the title two consecutive years. This is a competitive event outside of work which is good fun and is an opportunity to travel away and meet new people.

My job is rewarding and is full of varied and diverse challenges. When you help someone out of a tricky situation you get a great sense of achievement.

I would recommend it to anyone. For me, I have gained so many different skills which have made me more decisive and confident and the experiences are a good springboard help with further development in the role.

Radyr library gets the thumbs up after refurbishment

RADYR Library has re-opened following a seven month refurbishment.

The library held a day of celebratory activities to mark the occasion including craft classes and a story time session for children.

The library has a new look, both inside and out, with modern furnishings and fittings which has made the building a more welcoming and attractive place to visit.

Other work has included an extended floor space, improved disabled access, better IT facilities, free WiFi, a replenished book stock, a new community and study area, new children's area, and a new public toilet.

Radyr Library now also offers eBooks and eAudiobook downloads that customers can access from home.

Cabinet Member for Education and Lifelong Learning, Councillor Julia Magill: said: "I very much welcome the re-opening of Radyr Library – a much used community resource. The refurbishment has provided the opportunity to improve all the facilities at the library and I am delighted that library members will have a new and much improved building."

• Anyone who wants to join Radyr Library can do so by bringing along one item of ID (under 16s can use their parent or carer's ID). For more information, please visit www.cardiff.gov.uk /libraries

Community legend awarded with MBE

A FORMER Cardiff Council employee who has dedicated his life to helping young people has been awarded the MBE.

Former youth worker, Steve Khaireh, received the prestigious award as part of the Queen's Birthday Honours List after more than three decades of working with youngsters in the capital.

The 47-year-old father of three began volunteering as a 15 year old at his local youth centre in Butetown. In 1985 he became an area youth organiser and community tutor at Cathays Youth Centre working amongst others with future MP Alun Michael.

Since then, he has managed youth centres in Grangetown, Rumney, Llanrumney, Cyncoed and Butetown working with thousands of young people and help nurture a wide variety of talent.

Steve has also delivered social crime prevention partnerships with Cardiff Council's Social Services and Education teams, South Wales Police, the Probation Service and local community groups in Butetown, Grangetown and Rumney. In addition, he helped create the innovative 'Bee Healthy' teenage health project working in partnership with the Health Authority and Cardiff Council's Schools, Lifelong Learning and Leisure Services.

Over the years, Steve has won five Impetus Awards which recognise creative and innovative work using ethical values and human rights to respond to contemporary issues and challenges in young peoples' lives.

He's also won two Wales Excellence awards for youth work, a Community Safety Volunteer of the Year award and a Prince's Trust Building Bridges award for an alternative curriculum programme he pioneered.

Steve said: "I really cannot believe that I have been singled out and recognised in this way. I have been privileged to work with so many dedicated individuals in the fields of youth work over the years, all committed to improving the lives of children, young people and their families."

Among Steve's alumni are former Miss Wales, Michelle Bush, and footballers, Craig Bellamy (Man City, Liverpool, Cardiff City), Christian Roberts (Bristol City), Ramon Calliste (Man Utd, Liverpool), Abdi Ahmed and Omar Abdullahi (Blackburn Rovers) and Ibby Farah (Cardiff City).

Steve is still a regular volunteer and, as well as chair of the Governors of Fitzalan High School, is chair of Grangetown Boys and Girls Football Club, and a voluntary member of the athletic and football panels of the National Association of Boy's Clubs (NABC) for young people.

Councillor Lynda Thorne, Cabinet member for Communities, Housing and Social Justice, said: "I am delighted that Steve has been rewarded and recognised for the tremendous personal investment of time and effort he has spent in improving life for the young people of Cardiff. His contribution to community and voluntary services has been immense, and his drive and determination has won through."

Since taking retirement from the Council, Steve continues to work in the community and is co-ordinator for the Somali Intergration Society's SAHAN advice, volunteering and work placement project based in the Butetown Hub.

Recycling Olympics awards

SCHOOL children from all over Cardiff gathered at City Hall last month to celebrate the Recycling Olympics as part of the Really Rubbish campaign run by Cardiff Council.

Nearly 300 primary school children took part in an action-packed day that drove home the reduce, re-use and recycle message, with the afternoon given over to an award ceremony for the best recycling ideas and initiatives.

Executive Member for Environment, Councillor Ashley Govier opened the day and was very impressed with the commitment to recycling and keeping Cardiff clean.

He said: "It was fantastic to see the kids turn up in such huge numbers and show their passion for recycling. Their ideas were truly inspirational and you come away thinking the future is in safe hands. It is our duty to provide the platform for the next generation to make sure they have the best possible opportunity to create a truly sustainable future.

"By putting on these events, we are reaching out to children and young people to think about the world and the waste we create. They are responding brilliantly and could teach some adults a thing or two. This work is invaluable and we will increasingly see the benefits in a cleaner and greener Cardiff for all."

• Councillor Govier at the Really Rubbish event

The day got off to a flying start with a flag parade where schools had made flags from recycled items with strong sustainable messages. Councillor Govier judged the entrants with Meadow Lane Primary winning first prize with their innovative design. The children then participated in sustainability workshops and visited the many stands in the hall including an interactive Cardiff Devils tent.

A cooking demonstration followed with celebrated Cardiff chef Spiro Borg showing how food near its sell-by date can be turned into delicious snacks and treats instead of being thrown out.

The afternoon was all about the awards and five were given out by Cardiff Devils players Max Birbraer, Phil Hill and Adam Harding. The winners were:

- 3 R's Award – Joseph Nelms from Pentyrch Primary School
- Recycler of the Year – Nancy Dalton-Firth from Radnor Primary
- Food Waste Champion – Mooreland Primary School
- Really Rubbish Teacher – Eoghan Walsh from Radnor Primary
- Green School of the Year – St Phillip Evans Primary

War Memorial plea

THE COMMITTEE of Rumney Memorial Hall is looking for local people who have lost members of their family while on active service to get in touch with them.

The hall on Wentloog Road was originally built to commemorate those who died in the First World War. Local people gave pennies to buy bricks for the Hall to be completed.

Since then, it has become a focal point for the community, and is regularly used by more than a dozen groups, for such diverse activities as history, Zumba, drama, childcare, dancing and painting.

The committee responsible for the hall is looking to update the War Memorial that stands in front of the Hall to include more recent conflicts involving this country. It currently only records those lost in both World Wars.

If you live in the Rumney area and want a member of your family lost in active service recorded on the Memorial, then please contact the Committee care of 97 Wentloog Road, Rumney, Cardiff CF3 3HD. Make sure you include all possible details, and copies of any relevant documents giving regiment and conflict, by September 30.

For those closer to the city centre, secure cycle parking is located in Sophia Gardens, while bus services in the area will be affected. For further information contact the bus companies or visit their websites.

Cabinet Member for Strategic Planning, Highways, Traffic and Transportation, Councillor Ralph Cook, said: "Hosting the Olympics Games is a huge milestone in Cardiff's history and we want to make sure the events hosted in the city run as smoothly as possible for both residents and visitors to the capital. The city has already proven time and time again how we have the right infrastructure in place to be a world class event venue.

"We have worked closely with the London Organising Committee of the Olympic and Paralympic Games (LOCOG), The Millennium Stadium and South Wales Police to ensure everyone's safety is the priority, this is why it is essential to have these road closures in place.

"Officers will meet with city centre business regarding deliveries and we will continue to communicate with residents regarding details for the Olympics.

"I would like to thank everyone in advance for their cooperation during the football matches and I know, just like the Olympic Torch arriving in the city in May the capital will once again rise to the occasion."

Llamau chosen as Chair's charity

THE new Chair of Cardiff Council, Councillor Cerys Furlong has chosen to support local homelessness charity Llamau as part of her role.

Llamau delivers services to homeless or potentially homeless young people and vulnerable women across South Wales.

Councillor Furlong said: "Given the current economic climate there is a greater need to support services and charities that help to tackle homelessness. I selected Llamau to be the charity I wish to see supported this year because of the vital and valuable work they are engaged in – helping some of the most vulnerable young people and women in society and preventing homelessness from occurring.

"I recently had the opportunity to visit one of their projects to see first-hand the superb work they are doing in the city and to meet some of those they are working to help."

Llamau works with members of the community who are particulary at risk from homelessness, including care leavers, young offenders, those at risk of offending, victims of domestic abuse and people who have chaotic and disadvantaged lifestyles.

During the next year Councillor Furlong will help to raise money for the charity by hosting special fundraising events and show her support by attending various functions already organised by Llamau.

She added: "I am fully committed to raising money for such a worthwhile charity over the next few months. There are already some fantastic events organised by the charity and I hope to create a few of my own to not only raise money but also to help raise Llamau's profile."

Llamau 's Chief Executive Frances Beecher said: " We are overwhelmed and delighted that Llamau has been chosen and it is great to know that any funds raised in Cardiff will remain local and go directly towards helping local people in need of our services and support. Llamau began in Cardiff and it's our home - to have a Cardiff born charity chosen by the Chair of Cardiff Council really makes us very proud indeed."

Torchbearer lights up the faces of children

AN inspirational volunteer, who was given the honour of being one of the Olympic torchbearers through Cardiff, is using her unique experience to help raise money for Cardiff schools.

Emily Barnes, who works for Cardiff Council's Social Lettings Unit and is a volunteer for Friends 4U, has arranged for the torch to be taken on a tour of schools to share her story and to give the children an opportunity to see and hold a piece of history.

So far the torch has been taken to Millbank Primary School in Ely, and The Hollies Special School in Pentwyn, where the children have donated money to have their photo taken with the torch.

The money raised will pay for sporting equipment to remember the Olympics and to purchase special equipment for the schools.

Emily said, "I feel honoured to have been chosen to carry the torch, it was an amazing experience that I will never forget.

"I didn't want the torch to just sit in the house so I thought that this was a great opportunity to raise money for schools while raising awareness of the Olympics and Paralympics.

"I'm hoping to visit a number of schools across the city and hopefully raise a lot of money."

Emily was nominated for her role as a volunteer for the scheme 'Friends 4 U', which provides mentoring and support for young people from six years old up to 16.

Cardiff picks up two national scrutiny awards

CARDIFF Council's Scrutiny Team triumphed twice at the national "Good Scrutiny" awards.

Scrutiny is a method for councillors from all political parties to work together to challenge the Council's Cabinet and service areas to produce the very best public services.

It operates through five Scrutiny Committees -

- Children and Young People
- Community and Adult Services
- Economy and Culture Environmental
- Policy Review and Performance.

The 2011 Scrutiny task and finish inquiry into Cardiff's night-time economy won the "Raising the Profile" and the "Scrutineers' Choice" categories at the glittering awards ceremony organised by the Centre for Public Scrutiny in Local Government House, a stone's throw from the Houses of Parliament in Westminster, London.

The Council's Economy and Culture Scrutiny Committee undertook the night-time economy inquiry. Councillor Craig Williams, Chair of the committee, said: "These two awards are a tribute to the hard work and vision of the many councillors, officers and partners who supported the night-time economy inquiry, and in particular to Councillor Richard Cook who led the inquiry. It also sends out a good message about the quality of scrutiny undertaken in Cardiff, which helps ensure the effectiveness and value of the Council's services".

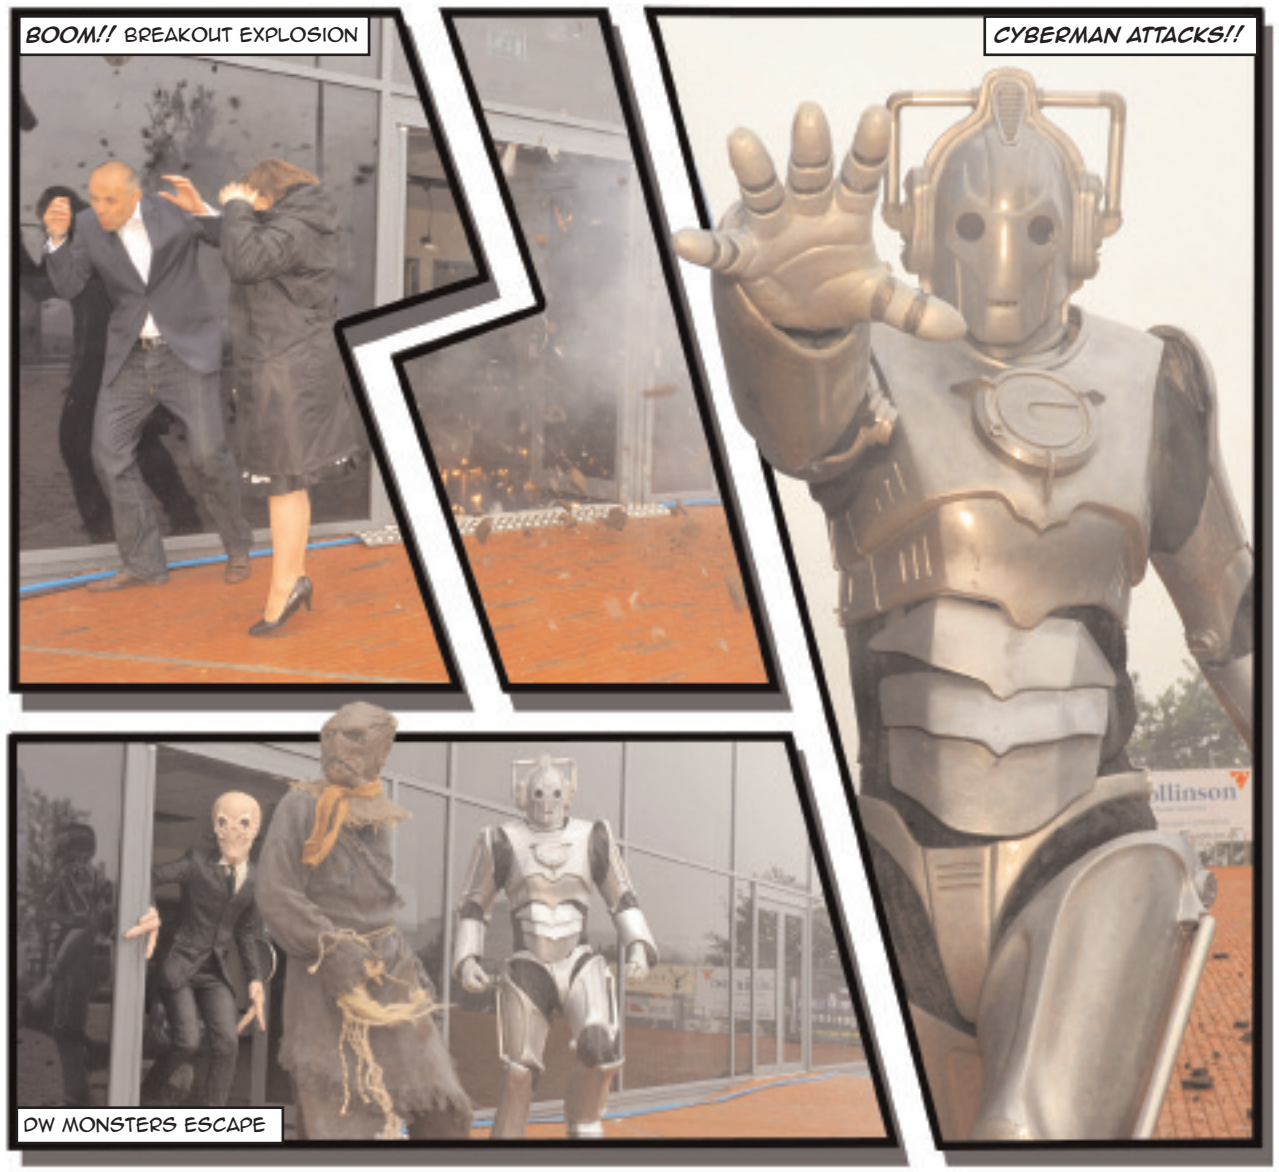
The "Raising the Profile" award was presented by Baroness Hamwee, Chair of the judging panel. The "Scrutineers' Choice" category was voted upon by scrutiny councillors and officers from across the UK from a short list of five projects, and Cardiff's entry won 54 per cent of the popular vote. It was presented by David Brindle, Public Services Editor of the Guardian newspaper.

The scrutiny inquiry examined the economic impact and management of the night-time economy. It enjoyed great interest in the local and national media, and secured 3000 public responses to an online night time economy questionnaire.

Leader of Cardiff Council, Councilor Heather Joyce said, "To be recognised by your peers in this way is a great achievement and I'm delighted for all involved. Scrutiny is an important part of local democracy and our committees produce excellent and insightful work time and time again. This particular report on the night-time economy is timely and topical and has rightly gained national attention. I congratulate both councillors Williams and Cook, the Economy and Culture Committee as well as all the scrutiny officers who provide such wonderful support. These two awards are richly deserved."

The scrutiny committees are currently developing their work programmes for 2012/13, and welcome ideas from the public on topics that they could consider during the year. If you have ideas on the kinds of services that you feel could usefully be challenged to improve their effectiveness or value for money, please email scrutinyviewpoints@cardiff.gov.uk or contact the Council's C2C Contact Centre on Cardiff 029 2087 2087.

Doctor Who Experience is out of this world



THESE famous monsters escaped from the new Doctor Who Experience exhibition in Cardiff Bay prior to the attraction opening.

A Dalek, Cyberman, Ood, a Silent, and the Scarecrow all broke out of the building in a dramatic stunt much to the delight of passers-by in Cardiff Bay.

It was a good glimpse of things to come for fans of the show, with the Doctor Who Experience boasting real sets, costumes and props from various eras of the sci-fi classic.

The Doctor Who Experience, which is based in in Porth Teigr, Cardiff Bay, is the first ever interactive Doctor Who exhibition that invites people to star in their very own Doctor Who adventure.

Arriving at the venue, visitors step through a crack in time to become the Doctor's companion, taking on the challenge of reuniting the Doctor with the TARDIS whilst fending off threats from some of his most fearsome foes - entering a Dalek spaceship and finding a way through a maze of Weeping Angels.

Featuring a replica of the Eleventh Doctor's TARDIS, which visitors get to fly themselves, the interactive walk-through culminates in a stunning 3D finale that sets the scene for fans entering the exhibition.

The exhibition presents fans with the world's most extensive collection of original Doctor Who costumes and artefacts stretching back almost 50 years to the very first series of Doctor Who.

Extreme Sailing Series

THE UK round of the award-winning Extreme Sailing Series™ is due to be staged in Cardiff Bay between Friday, August 31 and Sunday, September 2.

The award-winning and adrenaline-fueled Extreme Sailing Series™, now in its sixth year, is an innovative and uncompromising format, offering a grandstand experience within a whisker of the high-speed action.

The event, racing Extreme 40 catamarans, takes place across eight countries including China, Italy, Turkey and Brazil and attracts some of the best professional sailors in the world.

This year eight international teams will compete and the line-up reads like a who's who of sailing, with a stellar cast of top professional sailors including Olympic medalists, America's Cup veterans, World Champions and Round the World sailors.

The teams battle each other at breakneck speeds around demanding courses, often within touching distance of the shore, guaranteeing spectators a grandstand view of the fast and furious action.

The Cardiff stage will take place over three days with the event open to the public as the Extreme 40 fleet race around Cardiff Bay.

The regatta will include bars, live entertainment and a public viewing area of the racing with commentary. The atmosphere can only be described as electric and makes for a totally unique experience.

Councillor Huw Thomas, Cabinet member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, said: "I am delighted that this hugely exciting event is coming to Cardiff Bay. Cardiff won the bid to host the UK event of this global sailing circuit that is only one of four events with ISAF (International Sailing Federation) Special Event status.

"This has put the city alongside the other seven premium international sporting venues hosting an Extreme Sailing Series Act in 2012 and is yet another example of Cardiff's reputation as a world-class sporting capital."

First One Planet Festival is a big success

A festival to celebrate sustainability and give people tips on how to live a greener life took place recently around the city.

The first Cardiff 'One Planet Festival' brought together a wide range of events to celebrate what people, organisations and projects across the city are doing to live a smart and sustainable lifestyle. Activities included talks, walks, markets, music and drama.

The festival started with a free event at City Hall called The Cardiff: One Planet Living where Cardiff Council Deputy Leader, Councillor Ralph Cook, announced the consultation of a new Cardiff: One Planet City vision document.

This will set out the Council's vision of being a sustainable city and will ask residents of Cardiff for their feedback.

Councillor Cook: said: "The world is going to change during the 21st Century, and Cardiff will need to respond. There'll be big challenges to meet - like managing a changing climate, changing demographics, and a rapidly growing city. Being a 'One Planet City' is about ensuring Cardiff can respond to these challenges, and be an enterprising, prosperous, healthy, happy, clean and green city in the future.

"In short it's about making Cardiff an even better place to live in 2050 than it already is now."

The council has signed up to the Welsh Government's Sustainable Development Charter and as part of that commitment created the Cardiff: One Planet Festival to promote the serious and positive message about sustainability through a fun event.

Cabinet Member for Environment, Councillor Ashley Govier, added: "The Cardiff: One Planet Festival was created to celebrate the proactive work that residents and organisations are doing within the capital to make the city a sustainable place to live.

"It is really important we get residents views on the One Planet City vision. We need to know how residents use the city and how we can work together to develop our credentials. I am looking forward to seeing the feedback and developing the One Planet City which will set out the vision for the future of our great city."

Bute Park shortlisted for national award

BUTE PARK has been short-listed for a 2012 National Lottery Award under the Best Heritage Project category.

The National Lottery Awards are an annual search to find the UK's favourite Lottery-funded projects and aim to celebrate and recognise the difference that those projects have made to people, places and communities all across the UK.

Following a selection process from hundreds of entries by an independent judging panel, the Bute Park Restoration Project and nine other projects have made the semi-final.

This next stage of the competition is judged by the public and the three projects with the most public votes in each category will go through to a final televised on BBC 1.

The Bute Park Restoration Project, supported by a £3.1 million grant from the Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF), has transformed Cardiff's largest city centre park into a place celebrated by the city's residents and visitors alike.

The project has preserved the park's unique heritage while creating educational and recreational opportunities. It has also enhanced the parks historical features, provided new facilities, widened access and helped tell the park's stories.

Bute Park has a listed building, famous listed boundary wall, historic waterways and a scheduled ancient monument - the park's medieval Friary site - all of which are being restored and interpreted as part of the project.

Lottery funding has also helped restore the iconic Animal Wall, build a new outdoor eatery echoing the style of an old park Summerhouse, build a new education centre and transform the old park keeper's lodge into a tea room, gift shop and art gallery

Cabinet Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Councillor Huw Thomas said: "It is fantastic news that the Bute Park Restoration Project has been shortlisted for this national award and it is a great tribute to the many people who are working hard to transform Bute Park into a place of heritage, education and enjoyment."

Work begins on Fairwater Leisure Centre

FAIRWATER Leisure Centre is undergoing an exciting new refurbishment.

Work has started to create a renovated centre which will boast a state-of-the-art air conditioned gymnasium with approximately 30 exercise stations, a licensed coffee and juice bar, dance studio and a multi purpose activity room for meetings and fitness classes.

To minimise disruption to customers, the leisure centre will remain open during the redevelopment with fitness classes and other activities being moved to different locations within the building. Work is set be completed by mid-September.

Following the refurbishment, a free open weekend will take place on Saturday, September 22 and Sunday, September 23 where customers can try out the new facilities.

This will include use of the gym and a range of fitness taster sessions including step, Zumba and pilates as well as a variety of free children's activities.

Cabinet Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Councillor Huw Thomas said: "Fairwater Leisure Centre is almost 30 years old and is at the heart of the local community.

"This refurbishment will improve the facility extensively, not only demonstrating the Council's commitment to providing facilities which match the standard of the private sector, but also making leisure and sporting activities more accessible to everyone."

He added: "This forms just one plank of improvements to leisure centres to be carried out across the city over the next year. This includes the refurbishment of Eastern Leisure Centre and additional improvements to be carried out on Pentwyn and Llanishen Leisure Centres."

Shoppers flock to St Mary Street Market

ARTISAN foods, vintage clothing, antique furniture and bric-a-brac are amongst the unique offerings available each week to buy in the heart of the city centre.

The St Mary Street Cardiff Market is a new weekly event run by Cardiff Council and supported by Riverside Community Market Association.

The recently launched market runs between 11am and 5pm every Saturday on St Mary Street, outside Cardiff Market, and is proving a big hit with shoppers.

Cabinet Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Councillor Huw Thomas said: "The launch of the St Mary Street Market has helped attract more people into the city centre and is providing a unique and diverse shopping experience for both residents and visitors to Cardiff.

"The capital already has excellent shopping provision and this new market gives people the chance to pick up some one-off finds whilst, enjoying a distinctive and vibrant atmosphere."

Meanwhile a Cardiff school has successfully held its second annual Farmers Market.

Mount Stuart Primary School in Cardiff Bay put on the event, which featured around 20 stalls selling local produce, freshly made foods, plants and fresh fruit and vegetables.

Parents and children also got to enjoy a host of other activities with a barbeque, face painting, an inflatable circus challenge and a very special guest – Pudsey Bear,

Nigel Pritchard, the school's Eco-Co-ordinator, said: "The market was a huge success and we attracted visitors from all over the area. Many producers sold out of their produce and we raised money for our outdoor learning areas in the school."

Wanted: Pyramid Club Volunteers

DO you have what it takes to become a Pyramid club volunteer?

Pyramid Cardiff is looking for people who have enthusiasm, a sense of fun, are able to play, listen, laugh and above all respect children for their individuality to run Pyramid Clubs next term

Pyramid clubs, part of Cardiff Council's 'Families First' scheme, are activity clubs that usually run after school for small groups of children.

The focus of the clubs is on building confidence and an improved sense of well-being, encouraging friendship skills and allowing the children to feel, perhaps for the first time in their lives, that they truly belong.

Children who go to Pyramid clubs are a very mixed bunch. Some may have special educational needs, but many do not. In fact some are very high achievers academically.

Pyramid children also come from all sorts of ethnic and social backgrounds. The reason they have been offered a place at a club is that their teacher has noticed that they are not always comfortable in a big group - perhaps they get a bit lost in a busy classroom, or they may be new to the school or going through a difficult patch for some reason.

As a result, they may not be doing as well in school as they could be, both academically and socially, and are missing out on opportunities as a result.

At the club, children do lots of fun activities including circle time (emotional literacy), games (group cohesion), arts and crafts (sense of belonging) and snacks (social skills) to help them improve their confidence and develop new friendships.

Clubs usually run once a week for an hour, and for ten weeks. Each club follows a similar format (eg in the first week the children choose a name for their club) but will develop differently depending on the wishes of the children, the club leaders, the time of year and the facilities available.

Pyramid Co-ordinator, Charlotte Dickinson, said: "We have clubs running in several schools. The children benefit greatly. The clubs give them some breathing space, letting them build up their confidence in smaller groups, and then, hopefully, they feel better about themselves in the classroom and outside of school. As a club leader, you will have fun and gain invaluable experience of interacting and working with children."

• If you are interested in this volunteering opportunity please contact Jandi Wood , Jane Elworthy or Charlotte Dickinson on 029 2093 2692 / 07974 183782 or email pyramidcardiff@gmail.com

People get on their bike for Cycle Festival

CARDIFF enjoyed the sight of all manner of bicycles in a celebration of Cardiff's second Cycle Festival, with activities for all ages and abilities promoting the fun side of cycling.

The exciting two week-long festival celebrated the bicycle, cycling and the vibrant community that surrounds it. Sponsored bike rides, themed yoga, knitting sessions, and a cycle-themed art exhibition are just some of the variety of events the capital witnessed over the fortnight – all to encourage people to get on their bikes and have fun.

Cardiff was recently placed in the top ten of the UK's most cycle-friendly towns and cities in a survey carried out by Virgin Money. The survey rates towns and cities on a range of criteria including bike thefts, accidents, serious injuries and deaths, the availability of cycle routes and bike repair shops.

The festival ended in a culmination of all things sustainable at a special event at City Hall that included a wide range of activities from street entertainers to solar powered live music, local food produce and more cycling workshops.

Cabinet Member for Strategic Planning, Highways, Traffic and Transportation, Councillor Ralph Cook said: "This festival is for anyone and everyone, to show how much fun cycling can be. Many people are aware of the benefits in terms of reducing travel costs, congestion and air pollution, as well as the healthy advantages in using bikes. The festival captured the pure enjoyment of cycling."

• Staff from the Cardiff Cycle Workshop

500 up for Cardiff Cycle Workshop

A GROUND breaking scheme run by Cycle Training Wales and Cardiff Council recycling and selling abandoned bikes has taken on its 500th bike.

The Cardiff Cycle Workshop collects the majority of its bikes from the council's household waste and recycling centres, repairs and sells them in monthly sales at affordable prices.

The aim is to divert the bikes away from landfill while encouraging people to try cycling and enjoy all the benefits cycling brings.

Coordinator at Cardiff Cycle Workshop, Jon Howes said: "Sales have been increasing steadily since we started. I think there is an appetite out there in the public for cycling and one of the barriers to cycling is the expense of buying a brand new bike.

"In these economically troubled times, people can't afford to spend £400-£500 on a brand new bike so if they can come here and buy a decent, reliable bike for £70-£80 pounds then I think people see that as a good thing.

"Our bikes and brand new bikes from a bike shop cater to different ends of the market and by helping people to get on their bikes we'll hopefully be introducing more people to the whole world of cycling and creating more customers for local bike shops as people need repairs or are in a position to buy a brand new bike."

Cyclists benefit from repair service

STAFF at Lamby Way have been encouraged to ditch four wheels for two with the help of Cycle Training Wales (CTW). A mechanic from the charity visited the waste management HQ to service and repair bikes as part of an initiative to encourage more cycling to work and help those who already do.

Keen cyclist Tim Roberts organised the free event and was happy with how it went. He said: "It's a great service offered by CTW and the event was a roaring success. We divided a three hour morning into 15 minute sessions and every slot was filled, such was its appeal to staff.

"The more people we can get onto bikes the better for everyone, there are so many benefits for your health, pocket and the planet. I even use mine to get to meetings so bikes are useful too."

Such was the success of the session, CTW will return to Lamby Way on a regular basis. They also visit other council sites with great success. Nick Cannon of CTW said: "We've been delivering a Doctor Bike service for Cardiff Council staff for quite a few years. We regularly visit five council sites.

"Employees now know what to expect, which means we get great take-up of the service. It's valuable because it means people can get essential jobs done easily and freely, and they barely need to leave their desks."

Opening the doors to hidden Cardiff

SOME of the city's most historic and fascinating buildings are to be opened up to the public as part of a special day to celebrate Cardiff's architecture and heritage.

Among the venues taking part in the Open Doors 2012 event, organised by the Civic Trust of Wales, are several owned by Cardiff Council including the Mansion House, the Cardiff Story Museum, Cathays Cemetery as well as the newly restored Melingriffith Waterpump.

The event will give people a unique opportunity to explore many places and buildings of historic and architectural interest that are normally closed to the public, with several behind the scenes talks and tours of areas that visitors don't often see.

There will be many interesting and varied events taking place organised by communities, the Council or their friends. Not to be missed are the Cathays Cemetery tours, the Mansion house presentation on 'Building of a Capital', Cardiff Bay Barrage Tours, Masonic Hall tours, and a fascinating behind the scenes tours in the Natural History Museum, St Fagans and a Heroes and Villains of Cardiff's Past guided walk which leaves from the Tourist Information Centre on The Hayes.

There will also be tours of religious buildings of all denominations including the Greek Orthodox Church and St Mary the Virgin both on Bute Street, St David's Roman Catholic Cathedral, St Margaret's in Roath (home of the Bute Mausoleum), and the Cardiff Reform Synagogue.

The programme launches on August 1. For details of events and booking information visit www.opendoorsdays.org.uk

PROTECTING THE TAX PAYER

The Auditor General is currently consulting with public bodies regarding the National Fraud Initiative (NFI). NFI is the public sectors leading enterprise against fraud and takes place every two years.

The next exercise will require Cardiff Council to submit information to the Auditor General on payroll, pension, creditors, housing tenancies, housing and council tax benefit, council tax, electoral register, students eligible for loans, private supported care home residents, parking and transport permits, insurance claimants, market/street traders, taxi drivers, and alcohol suppliers.

This authority is under a duty to protect the public funds it administers, and to this end may share information with other bodies for the prevention and detection of fraud. It may also share this information with other bodies responsible for auditing or administering public funds for these purposes.

The information will be compared with data held by other public bodies to identify fraudulent and erroneous payments from the public purse and to ensure the best use of public funds.

Since its commencement in 1996, NFI exercises have resulted in the detection and prevention of more than £22 million of fraud and overpayments in Wales and £993 million across the UK.

Further information can be found at www.cardiff.gov.uk/fraud or http://www.wao.gov.uk/ourwork/1252.asp or phone 029 20872087 and ask for the Data Protection Manager

Biodiversity Corner

Biodiversity is all living things. It provides us with food, clothing, medicine, building materials and fuel. It helps reduce stress and aids relaxation. Each month Cardiff Council ecologist Laura Palmer will point out some of the great biodiversity you can see across the city.

AUGUST

A well-known sound of summer is that of insects chirruping. This is crickets and grasshoppers 'stridulating' - communicating to attract a mate. Most grasshoppers do this by rubbing a row of pegs on a hind leg against their wing. This vibrates causing the sound. Crickets do this by rubbing their wings together.

There are 27 native species of grasshoppers and crickets in the UK. You can see some in parks across the city. Walking through long grass you will often see them jumping away in front of you, although most species can actually fly.

The easiest way to tell between a grasshopper and a cricket is that crickets have very long antennae and ovipositors compared to grasshoppers. An ovipositor is used to lay eggs and although to us it may look like a sting it is harmless.

I'll be back next month with more biodiversity attractions.

PUBLIC NOTICES

NEW TRAFFIC PROPOSALS FOR THE CITY AND COUNTY OF CARDIFF

The County Council of the City and County of Cardiff in exercise of its powers under the Highways Act 1980 as amended, Sections 45,46 and 53 of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 as amended, Part 6 of the Traffic Management Act 2004 as amended, the Civil Enforcement of Parking Contraventions (City and County of Cardiff) Designation Order 2010 as amended and of all other enabling powers intends imposing traffic restrictions on the lengths of road referred to in the Schedule below. The nature of the restriction and the titles of the proposed orders are also described in the said Schedule.

Full details of the proposals and plans showing the location and extent of the proposed restrictions may be seen at the address shown below during normal office hours.

Any objection you may have to any of the proposals must be submitted to me in writing on or before the 20th August 2012 and must contain the grounds on which you object.
